Ping Ho Environmental Technology Co., Ltd.

2023 Business Report

In 2023, the worldwide economic growth rate declined compared to the previous year, largely influenced by various adverse factors including global inflation, escalating pressures from interest rate hikes, and the ongoing standoff between Ukraine and Russia. As a result, the company's clients inevitably felt the impact, leading to a decrease in production. The decline in the company's revenue for 2023 primarily stemmed from reduced wastewater treatment volumes. Nevertheless, despite confronting these obstacles, the company successfully implemented various cost-cutting measures and consistently optimized its product portfolio, resulting in only a minor decline in profit compared to 2022.

Looking towards 2024, organizations such as the IMF anticipate a resurgence in global trade volume. Coupled with the continued interest in emerging technology applications and the gradual normalization of supply chain inventory levels, this is expected to bolster export momentum. Economic growth prospects for the year seem promising. However, caution is warranted due to the deceleration in China's economy and the increasing geopolitical risks. Within the company, variations in end-user demand could potentially influence production, thereby impacting on our water intake. The company is dedicated to closely monitoring customer conditions and adapting our strategies accordingly.

In recent years, with the rapid increase in various types of waste in Taiwan, the development of a circular economy has emerged as a significant issue that Taiwan needs to address. In addition to furthering the advancement of wastewater treatment technology, the company plans to actively expand into other project areas and explore the potential of commercializing various aspects of the circular economy.

Finally, we sincerely thank all shareholders and partners for their continued support and encouragement. Moving forward, the company will tackle upcoming challenges with a more proactive and rigorous attitude to meet the expectations of our shareholders.

(II) Budget Execution Status:

Our company did not publish financial forecasts for 2023, hence the application of budget attainment is not applicable.

(III) Financial Stability and Profitability Analysis:

(IV) Status of Research and Development:

Using SBR to remove organic pollutants in wastewater: Cultivating suitable microorganisms to decompose the residual organics in wastewater after chemical coagulation, then inputting them into SBR for testing. This allows for the acquisition of parameters and processes for SBR input during whole plant operation, thereby improving wastewater treatment efficiency and reducing operating costs.

II. Outline of Business Plan for the Year 2024

(I) Operational Strategy:

The escalating environmental crises globally and in Taiwan are increasingly impacting our daily lives. As a result, there has been a gradual shift away from the traditional notion of businesses solely prioritizing profit. The extent of the company's commitment and involvement in Environmental, Social, and Governance (ESG) initiatives, along with other corporate social responsibilities, serves as a reflection of its operational values to some degree. The company not only continues to develop in the environmental protection industry but also devotes itself to integrating upstream and downstream industries and arranging resource recycling to implement the company's development policy of "Integrity, Pragmatism, Sustainability." In addition to prioritizing environmental protection, the company will proactively strengthen corporate governance and fulfill corporate social responsibility to create higher shareholder value.

(II) Business Policy and Management:

1. Continuously monitor the quality of customer water and rigorously implement process controls to ensure compliance with regulatory standards for discharged water.

2. Visit clients periodically to understand their needs, enabling us to stay informed about industry changes and take responsive measures.
3. Enhance technological development and application to expand the scope and range of customer industries.

III. Status of Sales Forecast Plan:

The company's sales are primarily influenced by broader economic conditions, environmental protection regulations, and shifts in customer industries. Our customers are primarily engaged in export industries. Over the recent years, the company has proactively diversified into various industry sectors, including metal surface treatment, chemicals, textiles, electronics, biotechnology, and healthcare. We will actively pursue new projects to sustain growth momentum in our operations.

IV. The future of corporate development strategy is affected by external competitive environment, regulatory environment, and overall operating environment:

(I) The Future of Corporate Development Strategy:

1. Promote resource reuse to establish mutually beneficial partnerships with customers, emphasizing environmental sustainability.
2. Stay updated on environmental regulations and industry trends while deeply engaging in technical applications and developments to gain a competitive edge in the market.

(II) Impacted by the external competitive environment, regulatory framework, and overall business climate:

The operational status of the company is significantly influenced by the economic cycles of our customers' industries. Hence, we have progressively broadened our clientele to encompass diverse industries, mitigating the influence of any one sector on our operational stability.

Ping Ho Environmental Technology Co., Ltd.

Chairman of the Audit Committee: Chi-Shan Hung

March 12, 2024

2023 Independent Audit's Report and Financial Statements

Independent Auditors' Report

To the Board of Directors and Stockholders of Ping Ho Environmental Technology Co., Ltd.

Opinion

The consolidated balance sheets of Ping Ho Environmental Technology Co., Ltd. and subsidiaries (the "Group") as of December 31, 2023, and December 31, 2022, along with the consolidated statements of comprehensive income, consolidated statements of changes in equity, consolidated statements of cash flows, and notes to the consolidated financial statements (including a summary of significant accounting policies) for the periods January 1 through December 31 of the years 2023 and 2022 have been audited by our auditors.

According to the opinion of our auditor, the aforementioned consolidated financial statements have been prepared in accordance with the Securities Issuance Company Financial Reporting Standards, International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS"), International Accounting Standards ("IAS"), IFRIC Interpretations, and SIC Interpretations that came into effect as endorsed by the Financial Supervisory Commission, and are sufficient to fairly present the consolidated financial position of the Group as of December 31, 2023 and December 31, 2022, as well as the consolidated financial performance and consolidated cash flows for the period from January 1 to December 31, 2023 and January 1 to December 31, 2022.

Basis for Opinion

We conducted our audits in accordance with the Regulations Governing Auditing and Attestation of Statements by Certified Public Accountants and Standards on Auditing. Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditors' Responsibilities for the Audit of the Consolidated Financial Statements section of our report. The personnel affiliated with the accounting firm, in accordance with the regulations on independence, have maintained absolute independence from the Group and fulfilled other responsibilities under the code of professional ethics for accountants. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion.

Key Audit Matters

Key audit matters refer to the most significant matters in the audit of the financial statements of the Group for the year of 2023, as determined by our professional judgment as auditors. These matters were addressed during the audit of the consolidated financial statements and in the formation of our opinion. We do not express our opinion on these matters separately.

Revenue Recognition

The Group primarily derives its operating income from revenue generated by the treatment of wastewater. The recognition of revenue, in terms of amount and timing, is influenced by the existence and integrity of transactions with the numerous clients entrusted with wastewater processing. Therefore, we identified the recognition of revenues as a key audit matter.

Our audit procedures include (but not limited to) understanding and evaluating the appropriateness of the primary internal control design related to revenue recognition and testing its effectiveness; confirming the validity of the emission qualifications approved by environmental authorities, confirming that it's a polluting factory within the zone and obtaining a triple receipt from the Environmental Protection Agency, verifying the accuracy of the report information used by management to calculate revenues, including spot-checking the billing items and handling volumes in the report to the contract content and related weigh note, as well as checking the accuracy and reasonableness of its calculations. Also, according to the terms set by the contract, as well as whether the processing volume stated in the documents reported to the external environmental agencies is consistent with the company's records, to confirm the appropriate recognition of revenue. In addition, we also considered the appropriateness of the disclosures about operating revenue in Note 4 and Note 6 of the financial statements.

The responsibility of the management and governance for the consolidated financial statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the consolidated financial statements in accordance with the Regulations Governing the Preparation of Financial Reports by Securities Firms, the International Financial Reporting Standards, International Accounting Standards, IFRIC Interpretations, and SIC Interpretations that came into effect as endorsed by the Financial Supervisory Commission. Management is also responsible for maintaining necessary internal control relevant to the preparation of the consolidated financial statements to ensure that the consolidated financial statements are free from material misstatement by fraud or error.

In preparing the consolidated financial statements, management is responsible for assessing the ability of the Group to continue as a going concern, making relevant disclosures, and adopting the going concern basis of accounting unless the management intends to liquidate the company, cease operations, or has no other practical alternative apart from liquidation or cessation of operations.

The governance body of the Group (including the Audit Committee) bears the responsibility for overseeing the financial reporting process.

Auditors' responsibility for the audit of the consolidated financial statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the consolidated financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with Standards on Auditing will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misrepresentation can arise from fraud or error. If, individually or in aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these consolidated financial statements.

As part of an audit in accordance with the Standards on Auditing, we exercise professional judgment and professional skepticism. We also:

1. Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the consolidated financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that can sufficiently and appropriately form the basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.
2. Obtain an understanding of internal controls related to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Group's internal controls.
3. Evaluate the appropriateness of the accounting policies used and the reasonableness of their accounting estimates and relevant disclosures made by management.
4. Conclude on the appropriateness of management's use of the going concern basis of accounting and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Group's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our auditors' report to the related disclosures in the consolidated financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our auditors' report. However, future events or conditions may cause the Group to cease to continue as going concern.
5. Evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the consolidated financial statements (including the attached notes) and whether the consolidated financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a fair manner.
6. Obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence regarding the financial information of the entities or business activities within the Group to express an opinion on the consolidated financial statements. We are responsible for the direction, supervision, and performance of the group audit. We remain solely responsible for our audit opinion.

We communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit.

We also provide those charged with governance with a statement that we have complied with relevant ethical requirements regarding independence, and to communicate with them all relationships and other matters that may reasonably be thought to bear on our independence, and where applicable, related safeguards.

From the matters communicated with those charged with governance, we determine those matters of the Group that were of most significance in the audit of the consolidated financial statements of the current period and are therefore the key audit matters. We describe these matters in our auditors' report unless law or regulation precludes public disclosure about the matters or when, in extremely rare circumstances, we determine that a matter should not be communicated in our report because the adverse consequences of doing so would reasonably be expected to outweigh the public interest benefits of such communication.

According to the opinion of our auditor, the aforementioned individual financial statements have been prepared in accordance with the Securities Issuance Company Financial Reporting Standards and are sufficient to fairly present the financial position of the Company as of December 31, 2023 and December 31, 2022, as well as the individual financial performance and individual cash flows for the period from January 1 to December 31, 2023 and January 1 to December 31, 2022.

Basis for Opinion

We conducted our audits in accordance with the Regulations Governing Auditing and Attestation of Statements by Certified Public Accountants and Standards on Auditing. Our responsibilities under those rules and standards are described in the Auditors' Responsibilities for the Audit of the Individual Financial Statements section of our report. The personnel affiliated with the accounting firm, in accordance with the regulations on independence, have maintained absolute independence from the Company and fulfilled other responsibilities under the code of professional ethics for accountants. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion.

Key Audit Matters

Key audit matters refer to the most significant matters in the audit of the financial statements of Ping Ho Environmental Technology Co., Ltd. for the year of 2023, as determined by our professional judgment as auditors. These matters were addressed during the audit of the overall parent company only financial statements and in the formation of our opinion. We do not express our opinion on these matters separately.

Revenue Recognition

The Company primarily derives its operating income from revenue generated by the treatment of wastewater. The recognition of revenue, in terms of amount and timing, is influenced by the existence and integrity of transactions with the numerous clients entrusted with wastewater processing. Therefore, we identified the recognition of revenues as a key audit matter.

Our audit procedures include (but not limited to) understanding and evaluating the appropriateness of the primary internal control design related to revenue recognition and testing its effectiveness; confirming the validity of the emission qualifications approved by environmental authorities, confirming that it's a polluting factory within the zone and obtaining a triple receipt from the Environmental Protection Agency, verifying the accuracy of the report information used by management to calculate revenues, including spot-checking the billing items and handling volumes in the report to the contract content and related weigh note, as well as checking the accuracy and reasonableness of its calculations. Also, according to the terms set by the contract, as well as whether the processing volume stated in the documents reported to the external environmental agencies is consistent with the company's records, to confirm the appropriate recognition of revenue. In addition, we also considered the appropriateness of the disclosures about operating revenue in Note 4 and Note 6 of the financial statements.

The responsibility of the management and governance for the parent company only financial statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the individual financial statements in accordance with the Regulations Governing the Preparation of Financial Reports by Securities Issuers. Management is also responsible for maintaining necessary internal control relevant to the preparation of the individual financial statements to ensure that the individual financial statements are free from material misstatement by fraud or error.

In preparing the individual financial statements, the responsibility of the management also includes assessing the ability of the Company to continue as a going concern, making relevant disclosures, and adopting the going concern basis of accounting unless the management intends to liquidate the company, cease operations, or has no other practical alternative apart from liquidation or cessation of operations.

The governance body of the Company (including the Audit Committee) bears the responsibility for overseeing the financial reporting process.

Account's responsibilities for the audit of individual financial statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the individual financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with Standards on Auditing will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misrepresentation can arise from fraud or error. If, individually or in aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these individual financial statements.

As part of an audit in accordance with the Standards on Auditing, we exercise professional judgment and professional skepticism. We also:

1. Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the parent company only Individual financial statements, whether due to fraud or errors, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtained audit evidence that can sufficiently and appropriately form the basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.
2. Obtain an understanding of internal controls related to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Company's internal controls.
3. Evaluate the appropriateness of the accounting policies used and the reasonableness of their accounting estimates and relevant disclosures made by management.
4. Conclude on the appropriateness of management's use of the going concern basis of accounting and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Company's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our auditors' report to the related disclosures in the consolidated financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our auditors' report. However, future events or conditions may cause the Company to cease to continue as going concern.
5. Evaluate the overall presentation, structure, and contents of the individual financial statements (including the attached notes), and whether the financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a fair manner.
6. Obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence regarding the financial information of the entities or business activities within the Company to express an opinion on the individual financial statements. We are responsible for the direction, supervision, and performance of the group audit. We remain solely responsible for our audit opinion.

From the matters communicated with those charged with governance, we determine those matters of the Company that were of most significance in the audit of the individual financial statements of the current period and are therefore the key audit matters. We describe these matters in our auditors' report unless law or regulation precludes public disclosure about the matters or when, in extremely rare circumstances, we determine that a matter should not be communicated in our report because the adverse consequences of doing so would reasonably be expected to outweigh the public interest benefits of such communication.

 - (4) In the event that all resolutions have been announced and no questions and motions are made, the handling approach would be as follows.
3. Convening a video conference shareholders' meeting should include specifying appropriate alternative measures for shareholders who have difficulty participating in the meeting via video conferencing. Additionally, the notice should specify the period during which shareholders can apply to the company and other relevant matters they should be aware of.

Article 7.

Should the shareholder meeting be called by the Board of Directors, the chairmanship is assumed by the chairman of the board. In the event of the chairman's absence or incapacity to fulfill their duties, the vice-chairman acts as their proxy. If there is no vice-chairman, or if they are also absent or unable to fulfill their duties, one of the executive directors appointed by the chairman acts as a proxy. In the absence of executive directors, one of the directors is designated to act as a proxy. Failure by the chairman to designate a proxy result in mutual appointment of a proxy by one of the executive directors or directors.

The chairmanship mentioned above is to be held by an executive director or director acting as a proxy, who has served in the position for over six months and possesses a comprehensive understanding of the company's financial operations. The same applies if the chairman serves as a representative of a corporate director.

The Shareholders' Meeting convened by the Board of Directors should be chaired by the chairman personally, and it is advisable for more than half of the directors to attend in person, along with at least one representative from each functional committee. The attendance should be documented in the minutes of the Shareholders' Meeting.

If the shareholders' meeting is convened by an entity other than the Board of Directors, the convener shall assume the role of chairman. In cases where there are two or more conveners, they should mutually select one individual to serve as chairman.

The company may designate appointed lawyers, accountants, or relevant personnel to attend the shareholders' meeting.

Article 8.

The company should record the process of shareholder registration, meeting, and vote counting in audio or video from the moment of accepting shareholder registration.

The recorded materials of the preceding paragraph shall be retained for at least one year. If, however, a shareholder files a lawsuit pursuant to Article 189 of the Company Act, the recording shall be retained until the conclusion of the litigation.

In the case of a shareholder meeting conducted via video conference, the company is required to record and preserve data pertaining to shareholder registration, check-in, inquiries, voting, and the company's voting results. Additionally, the entire video conference proceedings must be continuously and uninterruptedly recorded in both audio and video formats.

The company is required to adequately preserve the aforementioned data and audio-visual recordings throughout its existence, and provide the recordings to the trustee responsible for managing the video conference affairs for safekeeping.

Article 9.

The attendance at the shareholders' meeting should be calculated based on the number of shares. The number of shares present is calculated based on the attendance register or submitted check-in card, along with the number of shares reported on the video conference platform, and includes the shares voted by written or electronic.

Upon reaching the scheduled meeting time, the chairman should promptly declare the meeting start and announce the number of non-voting shares and the total shares represented.

In the absence of a representative with more than half of the total issued shares present, the chairman may announce a postponement of the meeting. However, such postponement shall be limited to twice, and the total delay time shall not exceed an hour. If the meeting is postponed twice and still fails to achieve the presence of shareholders representing over one-third of the total issued shares, the chairman should declare the meeting adjourned. In the case of a shareholder meeting held via video conference, the company should also announce the adjournment on the video conference platform of the shareholder meeting.

If the aforementioned postponement twice still fails to meet the quorum, with more than one-third of the total issued shares represented by shareholders, a tentative resolution may be adopted according to Article 175-1 of the Company Law. The tentative resolution should then be informed to all shareholders, and a new shareholders' meeting should be convened within one month. In the event of a shareholders' meeting conducted via video conference, shareholders who wish to attend via video should re-register with the company as per Article 6.

Before the end of the meeting, if the shares represented by attending shareholders reach more than half of the total issued shares, the chairman may resubmit the tentative resolution for a vote at the shareholders' meeting, as stipulated in Article 174 of the Company Law.

Article 10.

If a shareholders meeting is convened by the board of directors, the meeting agenda shall be set by the board of directors. Votes shall be cast on each separate proposal on the agenda (including extraordinary motions and amendments to the original proposals set out in the agenda). The meeting shall proceed in the order set by the agenda, which may not be changed without a resolution of the shareholders meeting.

The provisions of the preceding paragraph apply mutatis mutandis to a shareholders' meeting convened by an entity other than the board of directors with the power to convene. The chair may not declare the meeting adjourned prior to completion of deliberation on the meeting agenda of the preceding two paragraphs (including extraordinary motions), except by a resolution of the shareholders meeting. If the chair declares the meeting adjourned in violation of the rules of procedure, the other members of the board of directors shall promptly assist the attending shareholders in electing a new chair in accordance with statutory procedures, by agreement of a majority of the votes represented by the attending shareholders, and then continue the meeting.

The chair shall allow ample opportunity during the meeting for explanation and discussion of proposals and of amendments or extraordinary motions put forward by the shareholders; when the chair is of the opinion that a proposal has been discussed sufficiently to put it to a vote, the chair may announce the discussion closed, call for a vote, and schedule sufficient time for voting.

Article 11.

Before speaking, an attending shareholder must specify on a speaker's slip the subject of the speech, his/her shareholder account number (or attendance card number), and account name. The order in which shareholders speak will be set by the chair.

A shareholder in attendance who has submitted a speaker's slip but does not actually speak shall be deemed to have not spoken. When the content of the speech does not correspond to the subject given on the speaker's slip, the spoken content shall prevail.

Except with the consent of the chair, a shareholder may not speak more than twice on the same proposal, and a single speech may not exceed 5 minutes. If the shareholder's speech violates the rules or exceeds the scope of the agenda item, the chair may terminate the speech.

When an attending shareholder is speaking, other shareholders may not speak or interrupt unless they have sought and obtained the consent of the chair and the shareholder that has the floor; the chair shall stop any violation.

When a juristic person shareholder appoints two or more representatives to attend a shareholders meeting, only one of the representatives so appointed may speak on the same proposal.

After an attending shareholder has spoken, the chair may respond in person or direct relevant personnel to respond.

For shareholders' meetings conducted via video conference, shareholders participating through video means may submit questions in text on the video conference platform from the time the chairman announces the meeting's commencement until the meeting's adjournment is announced. Each resolution can be questioned up to two times, with a limit of 200 words per question. The provisions from the first to the fifth do not apply in this case.

Article 12.

Voting at a shareholders meeting shall be calculated based on the number of shares.

With respect to resolutions of shareholders meetings, the number of shares held by a shareholder with no voting rights shall not be calculated as part of the total number of issued shares.

When a shareholder is an interested party in relation to an agenda item, and there is the likelihood that such a relationship would prejudice the interests of the company, that shareholder may not vote on that item, and may not exercise voting rights as proxy for any other shareholder.

The number of shares for which voting rights may not be exercised under the preceding paragraph shall not be calculated as part of the voting rights represented by attending shareholders.

With the exception of a trust enterprise or a shareholder services agent approved by the competent securities authority, when one person is concurrently appointed as proxy by two or more shareholders, the voting rights represented by that proxy may not exceed three percent of the voting rights represented by the total number of issued shares. If that percentage is exceeded, the voting rights in excess of that percentage shall not be included in the calculation.

Article 13.

A shareholder shall be entitled to one vote for each share held, except when the shares are restricted shares or are deemed non-voting shares under Article 179, paragraph 2 of the Company Act.

When the company holds a shareholder meeting, it shall adopt exercise of voting rights by electronic means and may adopt exercise of voting rights by correspondence. When voting rights are exercised by correspondence or electronic means, the method of exercise shall be specified in the shareholders meeting notice. A shareholder exercising voting rights by correspondence or electronic means will be deemed to have attended the meeting in person, but to have waived his/her rights with respect to the extraordinary motions and amendments to original proposals of that meeting; it is therefore advisable that the company avoid the submission of extraordinary motions and amendments to original proposals.

A shareholder intending to exercise voting rights by correspondence or electronic means under the preceding paragraph shall deliver a written declaration of intent to the company two days before the date of the shareholders meeting. When duplicate declarations of intent are delivered, the one received earliest shall prevail, except when a declaration is made to cancel the earlier declaration of intent.

After a shareholder has exercised voting rights by correspondence or electronic means, in the event the shareholder intends to attend the shareholders meeting in person or via video conference, a written declaration of intent to retract the voting rights already exercised under the preceding paragraph shall be made known to the company, by the same means by which the voting rights were exercised, before two business days before the date of the shareholders meeting.
